"Doubting, Worrying & Wondering: The path to ethical decision-making is awareness"

THURSDAY, May 24 | GUEST SPEAKER

ANDREW URICH, J.D.

*Recommended for 1 CPE, Ethics **

Today, we are pleased to welcome Professor Andrew Urich, J.D., Puterbaugh Professor of Ethics and Legal Studies, Spears School of Business, Oklahoma State University

Professor Andrew Urich is concerned about the trend among people who stand up in society and tell others how to behave – they sometimes are embarrassed, disgraced or arrested. In studying the complexity of ethical decision-making, he has identified awareness as the key factor. As an ordinary person, trying to be ethical, Andrew will argue that doubting, worrying, and wondering is truly the best strategy to avoid embarrassment, disgrace, and arrest. Bonus: As part of Professor Andrew Urich's research on ethical decision making, he stumbled upon the secret to happiness, which he will share with us during his entertaining and engaging presentation.

RESOLVING EVERYDAY CONFLICT

THUR-FRI, JUNE 7-8, 2012

(Not at Petroleum Club: see okethics.org for more info)

Bill Blew, Attorney

Conflict surrounds us and impacts all aspects of our lives, whether at work or home. "Peacemaking for Business" focuses on resolving the central issues of conflict while helping the individuals preserve and restore lasting, healthy relationships. The program will help those who are conflict-averse as well as those desiring to find better solutions for resolving disputes in the workplace. Four Principles of Peacemaking are emphasized. While the principles are Biblically based, this study and training uses "non-churchy" language and examples that are readily understandable by diverse faith perspectives found in the workplace. His main principles are universal and can be applied by Christians and non-Christians alike.
